

AFTER THE BANQUET.

Springer Nominates Cleveland for President.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 14.—[Special]—It was half past two o'clock this morning before the great Thurman banquet came to a close and the banquetters arose from their chairs.

The last, and one of the most effective speeches of the night, was Congressman Springer's, of Illinois, who, in an impromptu address, responded to the toast of "The Press," and nominated Cleveland for the Presidency in 1892.

In introducing Mr. Springer, Toast-master Outhwaite presented him as one of the distinguished leaders of the suppressed minority in the present House of Representatives, but as a man who had never been suppressed himself. (cheers). Mr. Springer was warmly welcomed and spoke as follows:

Mr. Toast-Master and gentlemen of the Thurman Club: I did not expect to be called upon to respond to any sentiment on this occasion, and therefore will be very brief in the response to that which has been suggested.

"To the press of the country, we owe much for the result of the recent election (applause). The press has at last taught the American people that the protective tariff is a tax (applause). McKinley, in his recent interview, stated that the late elections had gone against the Republican party for the reason that the people did not understand his bill. The fact is that the recent elections went against the Republican party because the people did understand his bill (laughter), and for this understanding of the nation we are indebted to the press of the country (applause). To the press we are indebted for the fact that on Tuesday last 150 majority of representatives were returned to the Fifty-second Congress opposed to the McKinley bill.

"We will be also indebted to the press for guiding that majority in the future to wise and patriotic legislation (applause). It will restore to the House of Representatives its deliberative character. It will re-establish constitutional and conservative methods of legislation which have prevailed for one hundred years, and make the House what it ought to be, a deliberative body. It will also point the way to future success, and in the great contest of 1892, we need not go beyond this banquet hall for a leader." At this reference to a coming nomination of ex-President Cleveland the audience went wild with enthusiasm, and mounting chairs the banquetters waived their bandanas and cheered lustily.

Continuing, Mr. Springer said: "Under his leadership, with the aid of the American press, we may confidently expect that in November, 1892, at least thirty-five states of this nation will cast their electoral votes for the nominees of the Democratic party (prolonged cheers). For this result we will be indebted to that great popular educational agency the press.

"The press, therefore, needs no eulogy from my lips. It will speak for itself (cheers and applause).

At 2:40 the banquet closed amid the greatest of good cheer, the band playing "Star Spangled Banner," the guests retiring and a large number waiting to congratulate Thurman and Cleveland on the success of the evening and the good words which had been uttered.

The two central figures of the evening passed from the hall a few minutes later, and soon hacks were dashing about in every direction.

Cleveland left for New York at 11:30 this morning in the private car of Senator Brice. The only occupants of the car were the ex-President, Daniel Lamont and Congressman Springer, of Illinois, the latter traveling eastward as the guest of Cleveland.

MINERAL LAND.

I offer for sale 201 acres of Coal and Iron Land, situated in the Catawba valley of Virginia, eleven miles from Roanoke. The outlook for great developments on this property is splendid. The ore is a vein of soft brown hematite 32 feet wide and assaying 50 per cent. metallic iron. And the coal prospects are fine—two shafts having been sunk, one 20 and the other 25 feet, through solid coal slate. The property also contains a mineral spring, which the analysis of Lehmann & Mager proved to possess remarkable curative powers for all kidney troubles, especially for diabetes. The enormous quantity of coal and ore that will be required for the large number of furnaces and other industrial plants in course of construction in Southwest Virginia will greatly increase the already large demand for these minerals, and consequently enhance the value of such property. Two railroads have been surveyed near the property, one of which the Roanoke and Craig railroad, and the other, the Virginia Western railroad, will afford valuable connections. Fuller information can be had by addressing H. ROSENHEIM, 413 W. Baltimore St., Baltimore, Md. nov8-3m

Public Sale of Lots

BUENA VISTA, VIRGINIA.

The Forest Land Company will offer for sale, November 21, 1890, at 10 a. m., about 250 lots. This property adjoins Buena Vista on the northwest side of the town, and is nearly surrounded by the lands of the Buena Vista company, which were laid off into lots and assigned to the original stockholders. It is beautifully located and well watered (having five large springs on it), and will become the choicest residence property of Buena Vista. The company have listed the lots very low in order to give the purchaser an opportunity to make a good profit on them. No new town in Virginia (excepting Roanoke) can show as good a line of industries secured to build up a city. We now have enough to bring ten thousand people here within the next twelve or fifteen months, and, with the boundless wealth and energy of the Buena Vista company behind it, we will have twenty-five or thirty thousand inhabitants in the next eight or ten years. Buena Vista is so situated that available land for lots is limited, and is bound to become very valuable.

Terms—One-third cash, balance in six and twelve months for all amounts under $500; for all amounts over $500 one-third cash, balance in one and two years. Negotiable notes taken for deferred payments secured by a deed of trust on the lots purchased. For further information we refer you to the members of the Buena Vista Real Estate Exchange. Respectfully
